

Regenerando con Urantia

Where every experience sows awareness

We sow diversity, we cultivate life

A Young Dream, An Ancestral Legacy

We are Regenerando con Urantia, an exemplary agroecological project born from the hearts of two young farmers in Jericó, Antioquia.

In challenging times for the countryside, where young people prefer to migrate to cities, we are passionately committed to keeping family farming alive, cultivating not only food, but also hope and community.

We believe in a prosperous, sustainable, and vibrant countryside, where traditions intertwine with innovation to offer the best of our land.

Victor Ramírez y Dálida Morales: Technologists in organic agricultural production at SENA, with six years of experience in agroecological vegetable production, and members of the Southwest Regenerators Network.

Agroecology in action: A commitment to life

At Regenerando con Urania, our production is a song to diversity and respect for nature:

Diverse and healthy crops: We sow a wide variety of chemical-free foods, nourishing your body and the soil. From fresh vegetables to seasonal fruits, every bite tells a story of care.

Sustainable practices:

- We implement renewable energies to minimize our footprint.
- We produce high-quality compost, improving soil fertility and reducing organic waste.
- We protect our water sources and promote biodiversity.

Sowing Knowledge: We conduct workshops and training sessions on agroecology, especially aimed at young people, to ensure the vital generational transition in the countryside and share our love for the land.

Experience the countryside: Authentic and transformative rural tourism

We invite you to immerse yourself in a unique, experiential rural experience, where you can:

Connect with the land: Participate in agricultural tasks, interact with our agroecological techniques, and rediscover the origin of your food.

Genuine cultural exchange: Share with our family and community, learn our stories, traditions, and the richness of peasant life. We provide a space for dialogue and mutual learning.

Flavors of origin: Taste dishes prepared with the fruits of our harvest, an explosion of freshness and tradition.

Nature and Well-being: Walk our trails, breathe fresh air, and let yourself be amazed by the beauty of the Colombian rural landscape.

Join our vision:

The countryside must always remain alive

At Regenerando con Urantia, we are convinced that the future is built through networking. We are looking for friends who share our values of sustainability environmental conservation, and community development.

!We would love to coordinate efforts!

We are looking for individuals and organizations that can contribute knowledge and resources to positively expand rural peasant and agroecological tourism.

¡Visit us, Learn and Connect!

Urantia Farm,
vereda Castalia,
Municipality of Jericó,
Antioquia, Colombia

+57 319 519 5707

urantiaorganica@gmail.com

@urantiajerico

Urantiajerico

<https://visionsuroeste.com/proyecto/urantia-agricultura-regenerativa-2/>

We are waiting for you to share the magic of the countryside and build a greener and more humane future together.