The origin of the Café Especial

The La Nohelia farm is located in the town of Jericó, Colombia. For three generations our family has grown the very special coffee that we are proud to offer today.

Our land is part of the mountainous landscape that forms the Andes Cordillera. This fertile soil allows the coffee to grow close to the flowers, bushes and wild fruit trees. It also provides the shades of the native trees, making our coffee a very special kind.

We handpick every fruit, select them, wash them with fresh water, dry the coffee beans in the sun and roast them ourselves to ensure the best quality.

La Nohelia coffee has an exquisite fragrance with a delicate smell and a sweet taste of citrusy, caramel and hints of wild berries.
